

Did I take my shot or not?

Pen not included*

YES!

It's been 3 minutes
and 17 seconds
since my last insulin injection

Timesulin is a replacement cap that turns any insulin pen into a smart pen to show how long it's been since the last insulin injection, helping to ease daily worries for people living with diabetes and preventing accidental missed or double doses.

Timing is Everything

The idea came from the experiences of CEO and co-founder John Sjölund who has been living with Type 1 since age three. Taking insulin before every meal and at bedtime is so much part of his daily life that John sometimes struggles to remember if he has taken his shot or not.

In 2009 John gathered a team to develop a replacement cap for insulin pens that would ease this uncertainty for him and millions of other pen users. It needed to be simple. The result? Timesulin. A smart cap that works with all major insulin pens, enhances safety, reduces anxiety, is affordable and very easy to use.

Discover how Timesulin can help your patients www.timesulin.com/patients

Timesulin

Discover which pens are compatible:
www.timesulin.com/pens

Peace of Mind

for all insulin pen users

Enhances Safety

Avoid forgotten injections and accidental double doses

Reduces Anxiety

Timesulin users will always know precisely how long since they took their last injection

It's Easy

No buttons to push, nothing to program and no change in routine. It's easy for all ages

Works with All Major Pens

Novo Nordisk[®], Lilly[®], Sanofi Aventis[®]

Visit our website to buy your Timesulin cap

www.timesulin.com

“As an active ultramarathon runner I simply cannot risk missing an injection – or even worse, taking an accidental double shot and draining all my energy before a race! Timesulin ensures that this will not happen. On the whole it allows me to know for sure whether I’ve injected or not, which means better HbA1c levels – a benefit to anyone with diabetes who injects.”

Gavin Griffiths (@diathlete)
Ultramarathon Runner,
Olympic Torch Bearer
London, United Kingdom

“Even the most intelligent person with diabetes can sometimes forget if an injection has just been given.

Timesulin is so very easy to use, it’s inexpensive, increases safety, decreases concerns of patients and loved ones - and it increases the balance of life with diabetes. Timesulin is needed!”

Paul B. Madden, M.Ed.
Chair, Education and Research Foundation of the American Association of Diabetes Educators

Discover what people are saying about Timesulin:
www.timesulin.com/fans

About us

For people with diabetes, the timing of insulin administration is very important. Timesulin shows with certainty how much time has passed since the last injection, avoiding the anxiety of having to deal with the sudden symptoms of high or low blood sugar levels.

The team behind Timesulin has a passion for changing the world of diabetes with smart design.

Mail us to learn more about the product, to purchase a Timesulin cap or to join our team as a distributor: info@timesulin.com

Patients Pending LTD

145-157 St John Street, London EC1V 4PY, United Kingdom
Company Number: 07382438

www.timesulin.com